MONTEREY, CALIFORNIA, U. S. OF AMERICA, September, 18th, 1846.

A piece of Lowell blue drill in May sold in this town for sixteen dollars.

A house lot of 100 yards square, worth in May $100, sold in August fer $400.

Ranchos worth, six months back, one hundred dollars asquare lesgue, are now five times that sum. More available ranchos were worth something more, and are now worth one thousand dollars per lesgue.

A newspaper has already been published in Monterey—a sloop and schooner built in this vicinity are now coesting under the U. S. flag—mills are building—Yankees stirring—achoolmasters sought for, and the whole of California looking up.

You may believe that under this pleasant state of affairs, Californian will in time bless their conquerors, and that Commodore Stockton, now Governor and Commander in Chief, must fell much pleasure in knowing how large a part he has taken in these great changes.

The Brooklyn, from New York, has landed her passengers in San Francisco. Part of the emigration from the States have reached the Sacramento; many more are within a few days travel.

MONTERRY, Celifornis, Sept. 18, 1846.

We have at length hoisted the American flag in Californis, which took place in Montersy on the 7th of July, 1846, and the inhabitants are in a measure relieved from the difficulties which oppressed them.

It is almost incredible to any but an eye witness, the grievances which these people have labored under for a number of years. No man could call his property his own for one moment. The continual revolutions that took place yearly, were the principal occasion of their troubles. Mexico took no notice of California, unless it was to send her superflueus poor officers to enrich themselves on the spoils of this confiding people, or to send here her outcasts who had highly deserved the gibbst.

some large events are in contemplation; but, as yet, nothing is certain.

Senate Chamber, Dec. 8.

Dear Siz:—A government express for Senta Fe, and perhaps California, will pass through St. Louis, a few days after you receive this, calling on Colonel Robert Campbell, as he goes. Please to make this known through the papers, that those who wish to write to their friends may have their letters ready. They should give as little bulk and weight to their letters as possible, and only send slips of newspapers, as the mail must be kept light and small.

Yours, truly,

THOMAS H. BENTON.
